Business services in the transitional economy of Romania
by Clementina Ivan-Ungureanu* (Chapter 1) and Agnes Ghibutiu* (Chapters 2, 3, 4)

Contents

1. Business services statistics
   1.1 General statistics in transition
       1.1.1 Sources of information
       1.1.2 Methodologies used
       1.1.3 Progress and future projects on developing business services
   1.2 Services in the transition period
       1.2.1 Demography of enterprises in the services sector
       1.2.2 Role of services in economy
   1.3 Business services
       1.3.1 Development of business services in transitional Romania
       1.3.2 Dimensioning of direct and indirect relations between business services and other branches of the economy

2. Analysis of business services statistics
   2.1 Findings according to statistical data
   2.2 Assessment of business services development in Romania
       2.2.1 Starting from scratch
       2.2.2 General economic framework for business services development: Stimuli and inhibiting factors
       2.2.3 The adjustment from industry towards services
       2.2.4 Main sources of business services development

* Clementina Ivan-Ungureanu, Ph.D., General director, Division of Macroeconomics Syntheses, Studies, Publications and Information Dissemination, National Institute for Statistics and Economic Studies, and senior research worker, Economic Forecasting Institute, Bucharest, Romania.

* Agnes Ghibutiu, Ph.D., Senior scientific researcher, Institute of World Economy, Bucharest, Romania.

3. Romania's trade and FDI in business services.
   An assessment of the process of integration into the EU

3.1 Romania and the Europe Agreement

3.2 Romania's trade in services
   3.2.1 Overview of available trade statistics
   3.2.2 Main characteristics of Romania's trade in services
   3.2.3 Composition of Romania's trade in services. The business services component
   3.2.4 Romania's assets in developing business services flows

3.3 Role of FDI in business services development in Romania
   3.3.1 FDI flows in the Romanian economy
   3.3.2 An overview of FDI involvement in selected business service industries

4. Policy conclusions
   4.1 Recommendations concerning the improvement of business services statistics
   4.2 Recommendations concerning policy options for business services development

References

Appendix