Chapter 9

People, adoption and introduction of EAM

Frederik Ahlemann, Kunal Mohan, Daniel Schäfczuk
Table of contents

Management summary ....................................................... 231

9.1 The relevance of the human dimension of EAM .................. 233
   How EAM practices can produce resistance ....................... 233
   This chapter’s objectives ........................................... 234

9.2 Why do stakeholders cooperate? –
   A psychological perspective on EAM adoption ................. 235
   The usefulness of the psychological lens ....................... 235
   What are the reasons for applying EAM practices? ............ 235
   Reason 1: I apply EAM practices because they have value for me . 236
   Reason 2: I apply EAM practices because people who are important to me say it’s the right thing to do ........... 238
   Reason 3: I apply EAM practices because I believe I can do it .... 239
   Reason 4: I apply EAM practices because my organisation supports me in doing so ........................................... 239
   Reason 5: I apply EAM practices because I am used to doing so .......... 240
   About the weight of these factors .................................. 240

9.3 How can stakeholders be convinced to cooperate? –
   A methodological perspective ....................................... 241
   Benefits – make EAM useful to people ............................ 241
   Make EAM fun to apply ............................................. 243
   Incentives – Reward people who apply EAM .................... 244
   Information – Convince people that EAM is great .............. 245
   Demonstrate authority through management commitment .... 246
   Provide all the support that is needed to apply EAM .......... 247

9.4 How can EAM be introduced? – A process perspective ......... 249
   Overview ............................................................. 249
   Step 1: Identify a project sponsor and define EAM targets .... 250
   Step 2: As-is analysis .............................................. 251
   Step 3: Stakeholder analysis ....................................... 252
   Step 4: Set up an organisational anchoring of the EAM team .... 253
   Step 5: Defining architecture principles and standards ........ 254
   Step 6: Defining the EAM scope .................................. 255
   Step 7: Design and implement EAM practices and services .... 255
   Step 8: Change management ....................................... 256
   Step 9: Piloting and evaluation .................................... 256
   Step 10: Roll-out and continuous improvement .................. 257

9.5 From methodologies to culture .................................... 259

9.6 Final recommendations for management ......................... 261

References ................................................................. 262