PRINCIPAL ACTIVITIES: Advanced Semiconductor Materials International NV is a diversified designer, manufacturer and marketer of equipment and materials used to produce semiconductor devices and integrated circuits. The Company provides a broad range of products, including microcomputercontrolled wafer processing, assembly automation and capsulation equipment, as well as gas and control systems for producing fiber optics materials. Most critical components for major products are designed and manufactured internally using a wide range of technological disciplines. The Company’s principal facilities in The Netherlands, the United States, Hong Kong and Japan enable it to meet local specifications and to sell and service its products in the world’s major semiconductor markets—Europe, the United States and the Far East. To meet the semiconductor industry’s demand for capital intensive production equipment and related systems, the Company’s design concept emphasizes simplified operation, high volume, superior quality production, safety, ease of maintenance and system integration
